Street Venders as Weather Prophets. Their Varying Cries.A Scheming Lawyer-Boarding-House Keepers

Grievances Dan" and His o'Plug."

These bright spring mornings, the air in the industrial portions of the city is filled with cries of street venders, many of which are by no means unmusical, and all more or less curious. Who ever heard one of this class crying his wares by their right name? They generally manage to distort it into some unintelligible combination of sounds as unlike the real name of the article they are selling as the preverbial chalk is different from the suppositious cheese. When one of them does call out the right name of his goods he is sure to fight name of his goods he is sure to follow it up with some variation of the word, as if ashamed of having been caught in the act of being intelligible. For instance, an old colored man passes through the street with a push-cart between 7 and 8 o'clock, singing: "Hominy, hominairy!" Hominy, hominairy!" while another who, however, is in the purchasing instead of the vending line, vells in startling tones. vending line, yells in startling tones:
"Soap grease, sofa!" By-the-way, what becomes of these street venders in cold weather? On a morning with any tinge of frost in the air, quiet reigns in the up town streets, but the moment the weather moderates again, out come the peddlers, with their lungs in full working order. So noticeable has this become that some people declare that, when they get up in the morning, they can form a pretty accurate idea as to the temperature without going out, by the absence or otherwise of the sounds from the knights of the pushcart.

THE CRITIC'S "Camera" yesterday obtained a negative of a well-known member of the legal fraternity, who has a bad reputation for honesty, in the act of beating a street-car company out of a fare. His method was simple and He stood on the Avenue, a few yards from Seventh street, and as a car came along he boarded it. "Is this a Navy-Yard car?" he asked the con-ductor. When informed that it was not he stepped off, remarking that he didn't like the bother of changing cars and would wait till the one he wanted came along. By this time the car had reached Seventh street and the lawyer stepped off, but instead of waiting for a Navy-Yard he, together with a number of other passengers, stepped over to the transfer agent, obtained from him a check and a moment later was bowling merrily up Seventh street with a grin of satisfaction on his face.

For several days past a number of women, with a don't-see-how-I'm-going-to-make-both-ends meet expression on their faces, have been going in and out of the District Assessor's office. They are boarding house keepers lookfor licenses, a regular lease having been caused by the recent arrest of the proprietor of the Hotel Webster for not having the necessary official permit to run it. There is but one opinion among the boarding-house keepers about the law which requires them to take out a license, and that is that it is unjust. The same opinion prevails largely among people who are not boardinghouse keepers. To many women who are struggling hard to make a living out of boarders it is a great temptation when, during a dull season, a transient visitor comes along and offers a good price for a few days' accommodation. To these people it is a great hardship to be obliged to pay an extra tax of $25 a year out of their meagre profits.

There is probably no man in town not a dealer in tiles who has a larger collection of silk hats than "Dan' Currie of the District Commissioners' executive staff. He always wears a "plug" and makes it a rule never to appear on the street with one that is the slightest degree out of date. As the style of this description of beadgear changes oftener than that of any other article of wearing apparel, he is obliged to buy a new one every few weeks. The very latest thing in tiles is one with the top considerably smaller than the botom and a narrow brim with a very slight curl. The first man to wear one was, of course, "Dan," who appeared under it yesterday and caused half the jeunesse dore of the city to turn green with envy as they observed the manner n which he had "scooped" them all.

In a communication on the subject Secretary Windom says: "While the Department does not undertake to de termine questions of law or fact upon hypothetical statements and in advance of an opportunity for official action, yet in this case there is no hesitation in expressing the opinion that the proviso n section 5 of the alien contract labor law, exempting from its operation persons employed strictly as personal or domestic servants,' was intended to apply only to servants who should come Parol or special, expressed or implied contracts are alike nder the ban of the law, and whether a court would determine that there was an implied agreement on the part of the bureau to furnish homes after arrival to from 500 to 1,000 servants at from $6 to $10 a month implied from the language of their answer, they can tell as well as I. I do not think it proper to say more at this time."

ITS LABORS CONCLUDED,

Final Session of the Washington City Presbytery.

The Washington City Presbytery, which has been in session at the Fourth Presbyterian Church since Wednesday morning considering the advisability of revisions in the Westminster Confession of Faith, concluded their labors yesterday afternoon and adjourned sine die.
At the reassembling of the Presbytery after recess yesterday the specifications taken up and voted upon were "The Saivation of the Heathen," "The Guilt suffered by Mankind by Adam's Sin," The Creation of the World in the Space of Six Days," "The Lord Jesus Christ as the Supreme Head of the hurch"—the section reading, "There no other head of the Church but the is no other head of the Church but the Lord Jesus Christ, nor can the Pope of degree of intelligence.

Rome in any sense be head thereof, but is that anti-Christ, that man of sin and son of perdition that exalted himself in the Church against Christ and all that is

This question of the treatment of the ope was one of the most interesting before the Presbytery. Remarks were made by Dr. Chester, Mr. Rathbun, Judge Drake, Dr. Bartlett, Drs. Fullerton and Van Wyck, Mr. Cobb, Rev. Mr. Wynkoop and Dr. Hamlin. The language used by the speakers was, more than anything else, conservative, and the specification was rejected by vote of 9 to 15. After this vote the Presbytery, by a vote of 6 to 12, decided not to omit the words "papists and other idolaters," in reference to the Roman Catholics.

The specification to omit from chapter 24, section 6, the words, "or such wilful desertion as can in no way be remedied by the Church or civil magis-trate," was adopted. The next two and final sections (making eighteen in all), referring to certain insertions to be made as to God's eternal decree hinder eth no man from accepting Christ (chapter 3, section 7), and a statement of the obligations and privileges of the Church to Christ, at the end of chapter 25, were unanimously adopted. The committee were directed to prepare an answer for the General Assembly of what had been done by the Presbytery.

REAL ESTATE BOOMING. Land in the Northwest Section Selling at $11 a foot. The failure of Washington to get the World's Fair has caused no halt in the steady advance of real estate values in this city. Every dealer whose opinion is worth considering is unhesitatingly pronounced in his assertion that the land market is better than it would have been if Congress had given us the fair. Prices would in that event have advanced at such a rate that men of small means would have been unable to invest in real estate and the reaction which must have set in later must have had a paralyzing effect on the market. Among the notable sales of the past few days is numbered that of a few feet of earth on G street northwest to Ben-jamin H. Warder. He paid $11 a foot for it. The little patch of land cost him $40,000. Mr. Warder, by this pur-chase, has come into possession of a plot measuring seventy feet front by eighty feet deep, and upon this he will soon build a magnificent block of business rooms. The dealer who negotiated this sale reported that during the early part of the week he sold in the northeast section all of square No. 1054, most of 1032 and one-third of 1055, at satisfactory prices. He also reports that Isherwood property is looking up, and sales there are fair, lot No. 22 being sold yesterday at a surprising price.

The House District Committee will hold a conference to morrow, when the proposition to build a bridge across the Eastern Branch at South Capitol street will be considered. Land on the other side of the river can be had at $6 an acre. If this bridge is constructed what man within ten miles of town will sell at that price.

Mr. Tcheiverle has recently come into undisputed possession of all the City View and Giesboro' property, which it is said will be soon offered for sale. The Legislature of Maryland recently passed a resolution instructing the Sen-ators and Members from that State to support the House bill appropriating funds to build a magnificent bridge across the eastern branch. If this across the eastern branch. bridge is built there will undoubtedly be fortunes in acre property across the the water. Early next week the House Committee will be driven over the ground in a body to Fort Washington.

Permits to Build.

Building permits were to-day granted as follows: J. F. Vogt, five brick dwellings, 2006 to 2014, alley, in square 100, $4,000; L. F.
